

WORK IN PROGRESS

The last 12 months have been a strange combination of frustrations and promises. At the time of writing, for the first time in many years, we have no paid Unlock local workers in post. So there is little I can share with you about current frontline work. However, we have more partnerships than ever just gearing up for new launches.

I have spent the last few months in correspondence with and making visits to a fascinating range of people and places, all of which are working to establish Unlock partnership projects in their locality.

This is what is going on place by place:

NEWCASTLE/BENWELL

An Unlock Local team is in development and the funding is all in place; we just need to find the right worker. At the time of writing we are advertising the post but hopefully by the time this report is published there will be a new worker in place (see the website http://www.unlock-urban.org.uk/our_workers_ben.php for the latest information)

SUNDERLAND – NORTH WEARSIDE

There is a group of local people here who have the use of a decommissioned church which they are developing as a community centre. They are keen to have an Unlock worker attached to that facility as it develops and already have some of their funding in place. http://www.unlock-urban.org.uk/our_workers_sun.php

HEREFORD, BURNLEY, LEEDS AND MANCHESTER

Groups of people in all these locations have approached us with a view to developing Unlock Partnerships in each location. Unlock is standing by to deliver as soon as they are ready to go ahead.

HASTINGS

May also be interested! It would be interesting to discover how Unlock's approaches work in a seaside town.

BIRMINGHAM

2 new workers will be appointed here in the autumn of 2013 to continue our Birmingham work in partnership with the Queen's Foundation and the Saltley Trust.

YORK DIOCESE

Unlock is in negotiation about delivering two Unlock Training events as part of the Diocesan Training programme.

BRISTOL AND SHEFFIELD

Both have former Unlock workers acting in a voluntary consultant capacity.

Some new Unlock projects develop more quickly than others, and the preparatory stages are important in establishing relationships and shaping Unlock partnerships to each local context; so I can't promise you when each of these will translate into an Unlock worker on the ground, or even that all of them will get that far; but these are all locations where we are talking with groups of people who believe that Unlock has something valuable to offer them, so hopefully by next year we will be able to bring you front line impact stories from at least some of them.

UNLOCKING PRAYER

A few years ago I was inspired by one of TEAR Fund's creative prayer ideas to use a bunch of keys as a prayer prompt. The idea was that every time you turn a key in a lock you use it as a reminder to ask God to unlock a particular situation. I have used the idea on a couple of occasions when leading prayers of intercession in church, and the last time I found using the Unlock keyring to be even more appropriate. This resulted in several people from our congregation expressing an interest in purchasing an Unlock keyring to use as a prayer prompt for themselves. These can be used as zip fasteners on bible covers, jackets etc. as well as traditional keyrings. If anyone is interested in purchasing one or more as a reminder to pray for Unlock as well as other situations, then they are obtainable at £2.50 each from the Unlock office with payment by cheque or Virgin giving at www.virginmoneygiving.com

CHECKPOINT VOLUNTEERS

If you would like to support Unlock through the London walk, but are finding the walking a bit much these days, why not volunteer to represent Unlock at one of the churches on the walk route. Unlock checkpoint volunteers help everything to run smoothly. They are provided with clear instructions and an Unlock staff T-shirt, so that they can be easily identified. If you are interested in helping in this way please contact the Unlock Office.

Church group walkers

Have you ever wondered which church groups take part in the annual London sponsored walk and how much they raise? Well, here is a list of churches which have sent in their sponsorship as a group this year, in order of amount raised. Perhaps you could add your church to the list next year, or maybe move it up the list a place or two. Full details of next year's walk are due to be circulated at the end of January and will also be on the website. For the first time this year we have published the answers to the walk quiz on the website, and congratulations to Jane Greenfield of Surbiton who was awarded this year's prize.

The 31st Unlock London Walk will take place in Camden/Kentish Town on Saturday the 3rd May 2014

The 31st Annual Walk is back in north central London, once again making use of the Grand Union Canal, different parts of which have featured in many of our walks. We will visit a church which is almost on the canal, and in 1989 was a stop on the only linear (as opposed to circular) walk we have ever done. So limber up, you walk veterans who remember that year, and bring some new walkers with you. It will be our normal circular route, taking in the popular Camden Lock, Primrose

Hill, and two famous prisons. For the first time at one stop we will be hosted by the Lutherans – the Luther Tyndale Memorial Church. Tyndale is one of the Bible martyrs we remembered on the walk we did in 2011.

“WE WANT YOU TO TELL US ABOUT YOUR JESUS”!

If only more English people would ask us that!

After retirement from parochial ministry in 2002 I attached myself to the Anglican Cathedral in Liverpool and became an Honorary Chaplain. In 2008 after a Sunday morning service a group of Iranian young men came up to me and asked if I was anything to do with the Cathedral. I indicated that I was because of the robes I was wearing! They said, “We want you to tell us about your Jesus”. Wow! Because of the shortage of time then I invited them all to come to meet me next day at 11a.m. for coffee and chat, not believing that they would come! They all turned up and we had one and a half hours together. They appeared genuinely interested as I told them about “my Jesus” and from that moment on my life as a minister was changed.

Since then I have been involved almost solely with asylum seekers and refugees, helping them with their English, their legal papers and court appearances, but above all in helping them to understand what the Christian Faith is all about and what it means to believe that Jesus is the Son of God, and is God. Now many of them are personal friends; I have baptised a number of them as they have turned from being nominal Muslims by birth to a personal faith in the Lord, Jesus Christ. It is a joy to see them growing in their new-found faith, worshipping in the Cathedral on a regular basis (preferring the more traditional worship pattern to the free and easy worship style of the Christian Iranian Churches in Liverpool), coming to a mid-week Bible study group and attending a special Christian nurture course in their own language.

Five years ago (already in retirement) I would not have imagined I'd be involved with people from other countries and it was as if God booted me into this ministry – as He does, and as He did when I became involved earlier with the Liverpool Diocesan GUML programme (Group for Urban Ministry and Leadership – a local expression of some of the same values as Unlock), and with Unlock ten years ago. These have radically changed the focus of my ministry and it is with sadness that I believe the time has come for me to ‘slow down a bit’ and to stand down from my involvement with Unlock.

My sincere thanks to the Council and others more deeply involved than I have been for such an understanding acceptance of my role as Chair of Unlock Trustees over these years. Unlock still has a role to play in the ministry of God's Church in our country and I will continue to pray for it as it continues to tell others about our Jesus in ways that are suitable and effective as Unlock methods have shown themselves to be over the years.

Canon John Roberts
(Chair of Unlock Trustees 2002 – 2013).

We are grateful to John for his wise and faithful service to Unlock and for sharing this story with us.

A View from Windy Nook

I was intrigued to receive an email from Unlock in Autumn 2012 describing the Unlock 40th Birthday party, which had just taken place, saying that there were resources going spare and would anyone be interested in hosting a second incarnation of "Unlocking the Prodigal". A good Geordie saying is "Shy bairns get nowt" - so together with a colleague involved with training locally, we stuck our hands up and said, "Yes please!" and were delighted when Dawn emailed back and said, "We'd love to come to Windy Nook"

You'll have read about "Unlocking the Prodigal" in last year's annual report. Enough to say that nearly 40 of us stretched the walls of St Albans to bursting point, exploring the Prodigal Son with all our senses and all our creativity. Chatting to people in the congregation afterwards, they said that the event had taken a very familiar story and helped them to experience it in a fresh way. This happened not just in the organised parts of the event, but just as much in the conversations it provoked, as people wandered around the church and shared lunch together. Stories of our own broken and mended families brought the parable alive in fresh ways.

"Can we do more of this?" I was asked, and even a tentative but hopeful, "Might we be able to do something like this for those on the edges of the church?" (We're still working out what the answer to that question might look like.)

As Lent came round, I very much wanted to help the congregation to explore prayer as a theme, but wanted to avoid the traditional Vicar role of being the one who came in with all the answers. To me, it was clear there was a depth of prayerfulness already in the church, but it was very private and shy and many people lacked the confidence that they actually knew very much at all. Unlock seemed an obvious approach.

We started by compiling a very long list of "Things we DON'T know about prayer" - just to clear the ground a little and acknowledge our doubts and questions and the things we felt we were supposed to know, but didn't. It was a very helpful exercise just to see that many of us felt equally baffled - we didn't divide neatly into "the experts" and "the clueless".

Each week in Lent we met and shared our stories about prayer - prayers answered, unanswered, times when prayer felt easy and times when it felt impossible, prayer alone and times when we dared to pray with others. We linked these to stories that Jesus told about prayer, and we explored creative ways of praying, with coloured pencils, photographs and plasticine, as well as with words and silence.

We learnt that between us, we actually did know quite a bit about prayer, and since then I've seen a real blossoming of confidence. People have started to pray with and for one another, and for our corner of Gateshead, much more naturally and confidently. This has continued to grow and develop even now, when Lent is a distant memory.

As a Vicar, Unlock has given me some really creative and flexible tools to use, to help church members grow in confidence in their faith and explore deeper together. As a church, Unlock has enabled some rich conversations and the courage to move on from where we are comfortable. Thank you!

Claire Cullingworth

Temporary Residents of Windy Nook at General Synod

Unlock had the opportunity to run a fringe meeting at the York Sessions of the General Synod of the Church of England in July. Two Council members, Sue Sherriff and Andy Dorton ran this with voluntary assistance from Claire Cullingworth from Windy Nook, Gateshead.

Participants were welcomed with food and small treats. They were given a potted history of Unlock and were invited to become 'temporary residents' of Windy Nook, including personal scenarios, e.g.

They then used a selection of fabrics and junk to create a 'weather forecast' for Windy Nook reflecting how life in the area might feel. Links to Bible stories were made (including Noah's ark) and people were invited to respond to the stories from the point of view of their Windy Nook characters long term resident, single father fighting for custody of his child, owner occupier etc. They were given a virtual tour of the area by Claire and introduced to some of its people. Claire created a wonderful picture of Windy Nook, which was very honest and showed a love of the area and people and a healthy pride in the local church ministry.

Then Unlock's Bible engagement approach was explained and people had an opportunity to ask questions and find out more about our work.

Responses were very positive from those who attended. The group was made up of a good mix of gender and people working in a wide range of roles and situations.

The Archbishop of Canterbury did pop his head around the door but unfortunately Andy did not recognise him and let him escape to another workshop!

THE FUNDING BLACK HOLE

Unlock's partnership with the Church Urban Fund has given us very welcome £35,000 of core funding over the last couple of years. CUFs' priorities have now shifted and our collaboration has therefore come to an end. We are grateful for the support we have had from them but the change in circumstances leaves us with a £15k per annum hole in our core funding requirements. We can function for the next 18 months or so but if we are not able to replace the CUF finance in the next couple of years we will not be able to continue our work with the Gospel amongst the urban poor.

The recession has hit charities hard. So far the commitment of Unlock's faithful supporters and the funding we have received from CUF have allowed us to survive the financial crisis. Nevertheless, those hardest hit by the recession are the very people Unlock works with. The already challenging circumstances of those who live in deprived urban communities are being made worse by welfare cuts & reduced employment opportunities. In such circumstances people need hope and the Gospel can give them that. Unlock's work is more essential than ever.

Please pray for this situation and consider ways in which you may be able to help secure more funds for Unlock's future. In particular consider the following:

- Including a gift to Unlock in your will
- Church missionary giving — could your church support Unlock?
- Ways in which you could encourage more people to support Unlock financially.

For information on any of these or any other ideas you have to help please contact the Unlock Office:

Treasurer's Report 2012

Thanks to our generous supporters, Unlock finished 2012 with an overall surplus of £4529. We were especially grateful for a further grant from the Church Urban Fund (CUF), which financed development work on possible new projects. The healthy bottom-line figure is a little misleading as it includes advance funding received for a new project not due to start until 2013. We would have ended the year with a significant deficit if we exclude this and if we had not received the CUF grant.

Income from the 2012 London walk was down, compared with the 2011 walk, at £26,086. This is still a magnificent sum considering the very wet weather on the day. We are very grateful to all those who braved the elements to walk, those who brought groups, everyone who sponsored and to the Walk Planning Team who plan and make the walk possible. The decreased income was offset, to some degree, by the office staff further streamlining the walk administration. The walk remains the major funding activity of Unlock but is also a great showcase to share what Unlock is all about with walkers, churches and the local communities. We hope that we will see you all at the next walk and invite you to bring a friend or two. It's a great day out...whatever the weather!

A number of individuals and churches support Unlock with donations throughout the year. These are really important in funding our work and we are grateful. Please remember Unlock if your church is planning its charitable giving. The office is always happy to provide information if you need to know more about Unlock. You can also support Unlock, at no cost to you, if you shop on-line: Have you signed up for "Give as You Live" (which is covered in a separate article)?

Unlock will not receive a further grant from CUF in 2013 and we expect to end the year with a deficit. The Unlock staff are constantly looking for ways to work more efficiently to save valuable resources. We continue to encourage as many people as possible to access information electronically rather than by post to save on printing and postage. (Please let the office know if you are happy to hear from us by email.)

Council continues to explore possible partnerships with other funding bodies but the current financial climate makes this increasingly difficult. The CUF grant has borne fruit and there are new Unlock local projects planned for 2013. Council remains committed to maintaining our core work as a priority for as long as possible. We hope that you will continue to support us in this aim.

On behalf of council, I wish to thank all who have supported Unlock in 2012. I would like to record my personal thanks to Lois and Jenny, in the office, for their hard work and support.

2013 walk income has reached £25,500 (August). Great effort! Thank you everyone!

giftaid it but what is giftaid?

Simply, for those of you who have not yet heard of 'Gift aid', it is a system that enables charities to claim an extra 25p from the Inland Revenue for every £1 donated to them by a UK taxpayer.

9 in every 10 donations received by Unlock are NOT made under gift-aid.

If you pay tax then please consider whether you can tick the gift-aid box on the registration form when you make your donation.

Gift aid will not cost YOU anything!

All it means is that we can apply to the Inland Revenue for an extra 25p for every £1 that you give towards our work.

To qualify for Gift aid, you must pay enough tax to cover the amount that will be claimed back by the charity/charities that you give to – so if you give £10 you must have paid £2.50 in tax!

NEW! You can now collect your walk sponsorship or make a donation online via Virgin Giving.

Chair's Annual Report

design by able-able-design.co.uk

I've just read a number of the other contributions which in edited form will be appearing in other parts of this newsletter. It makes me think of that 'thing' about being surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses. What can I usefully say? John Roberts, we love you and we'll miss you, as we are missing John Hunter; Windy Nook you're welcome... and we'll take your prayers any way and as imperfectly as you like; the Treasurer is right, but I'd add that there is a great deal of confidence among us that we are doing the right things and the rest is over to Him. Which is all to say, I really hope you read and enjoy and pray through this report.

But what I most want to pick up is Tyndale. He's mentioned in the note about the 2014 walk. (Before I go on - a huge thank you to the walkers for keeping it up, but especially here, a special thank you to Peter and Jill Hall, and to Geoff Coggins, and increasingly to Tim and Sarah Watkins-Idle for their efforts in organising it, backed up by the Unlock staff of course. It a beautiful thing - well done). Back to Tyndale. The Government is going 'Digital by default'. You won't be able to claim Universal Credit, should it ever happen, if you don't do it on-line. We're told that change is happening faster than ever - that the whole world will soon be e'd up. (I made that last term up, maybe it'll catch on). Well these revolutions in communication have happened before. Tyndale was part of, took advantage of, a revolution in communications technology - the printing press - that enabled a significant, rather than a very tiny proportion of the population to read the Bible. A new channel of communication was opened to the masses that the forces of empire could not close down, even as they had not been able to close down the Jesus movement by killing Him so long before.

Unlock is a little hand waving in the onward rush saying: 'hold on, there are a lot of people who you've by-passed in the rush to the new'. We do of course have a website and it's really rather good and there are a lot of resources on it for you to try out and get you developing your own. And we'd love to email you this and save printing and postage costs (get in touch!).

But my point is this:- Unlock is about saying to ourselves, as people committed to sharing the Good News of what life with Jesus is like in this world (as well as the next) - that we clearly aren't getting through to a large proportion of the population of this country who may not know it, but really do want to hear it. Our means of communication are not up to it. Our language, our stories, the images we present, our ways of going about sharing... aren't working. We are perhaps more obsessed with communication than ever before, though the current revolution is no greater than Tyndale's. But as Christians we are certainly not much better at effectively sharing the Good News with the people that, it appears, Jesus was most concerned about.

Unlock is about that miscommunication. Please pray for us that we will reach those Christians and church groups that are looking for a way of sharing Good News; that we will find those partner organisations with the reach into many churches to get our message out much further; that we will be effective in the cities and places we have 'workers'; that God will open up new places for Unlock to establish, through a worker and a support group, a presence in; and that we'd have the money to support them. Thank you for you continuing support - we can't do without it.
