

Alison Adlum – Unlock Burnley – Profile

Alison Adlum was born and brought up in the Burnley area. She studied music at the University of Wales, Bangor before joining a Bible College and Missionary Society in Scotland. She has now returned to her roots with her home church in Burnley, where she is a worship leader and regularly helps with the monthly Café Church. She works part-time as a Family Worker at the Methodist Church in Barnoldswick which includes a monthly Messy Church, school's work and outreach to families in the area.

A keen musician, Alison plays flute, piano and sings as well as composing her own songs. She also enjoys helping out with her cousin's children and spending time with family.
