Introduction

■ Do you live and serve God in a community in a city centre, inner city, council estate or a town with high unemployment?

■ Would you like to be more confident in how you and others in your church can show God's love, share your faith as a follower of Jesus, and develop activities to bring hope and reconciliation to your community?

■ Is God's Spirit prompting you to a new thing to build the Kingdom in your area, and you need some advice?

This brochure lists a number of organisations and resources that Christians like you have found helpful, in that task. They come from a variety of Christian traditions and viewpoints, but all have a heart for Jesus' Gospel of good news to gladden the hearts of people poor in goods or in spirit.

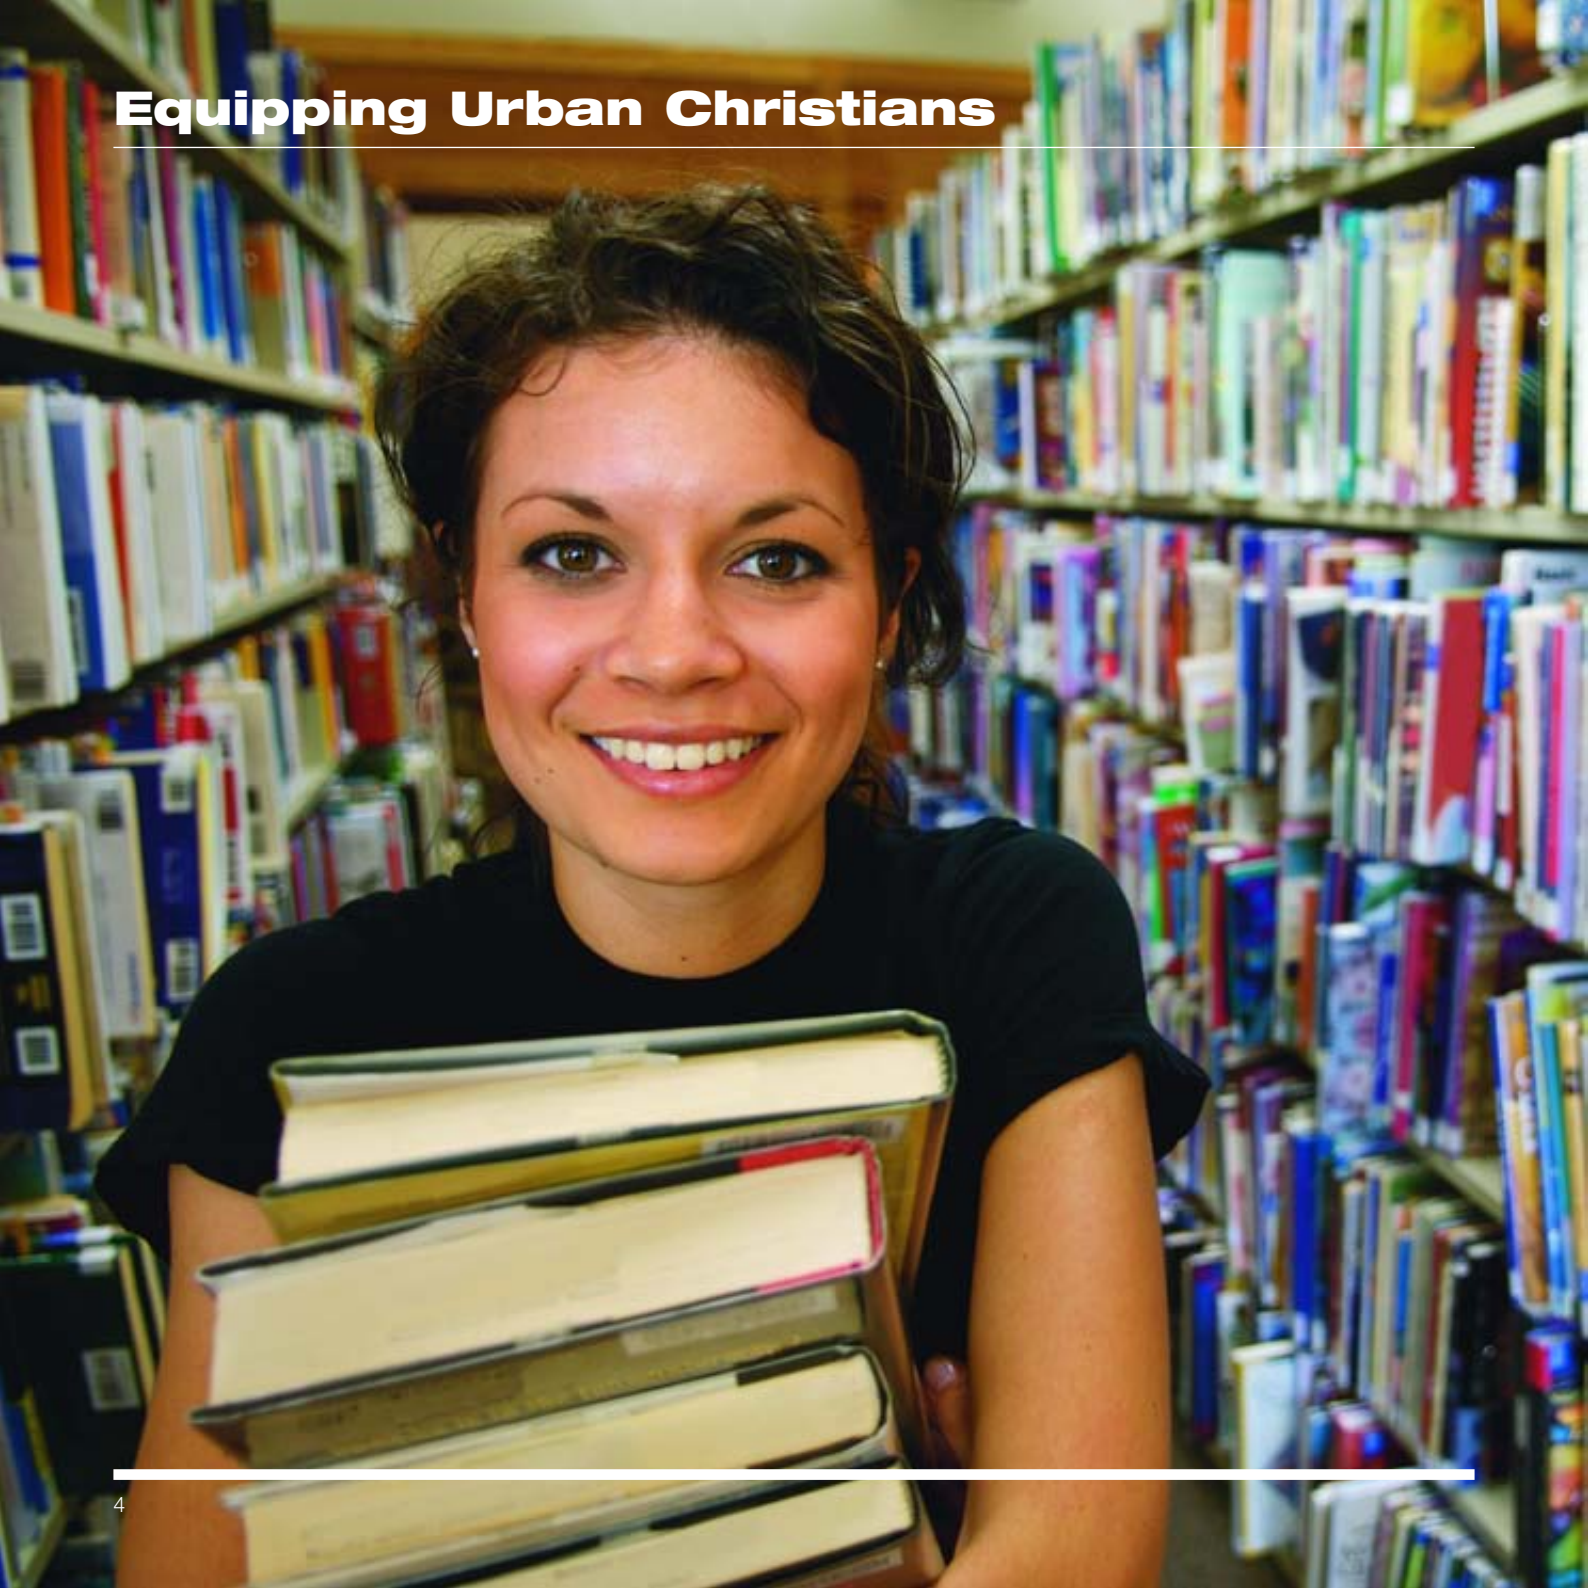

Jesus' ministry was one of teaching by words and teaching by doing. So there is a mix of resources listed. Some are about God's practical tasks, and some about our relationship with God. Some are things that you can use on your own, others are best done in groups. Some are based in the Midlands, some are courses where you will study with Christians across the country – and from elsewhere in the world.

We consider however you are serving God in the urban world, you will find something in this brochure to inspire and give you confidence for God's mission in your place.

Equipping Urban Christians

This brochure has listings from a number of organisations, some listing with a full page of detail and others with a few sentences. Each listing includes contact details of how to find out more information about resources they offer. The table below lists all the organisations and shows who their resources are for, how they are delivered and on what page to find further details.

Housing Justice

FOR: Church members, employed, beginners, experienced

HOW: church-based, course-based

Housing Justice is the national voice of Christian action in the field of housing and homelessness. We exist because we believe human dignity is challenged by the lack of decent housing. We support night-shelters, drop-ins and other practical projects nationwide by providing advice and training for churches and other community groups who work with homeless people. We lobby for change in government policy at national and local levels so that everyone can have a home that truly meets their needs. Housing Justice campaigns for humane treatment of street sleepers and for the provision of more affordable housing.

Our courses are for people interested in, concerned about or working in the area of homelessness in the UK. They include:

Introduction to homelessness - whole day introducing the homelessness scene and key issues for people working in homelessness. An introduction for volunteers at homelessness projects or a refresher for people returning to this field. Can be followed by more intensive sessions on substance abuse and challenging behaviour.

Mentoring and befriending – key skills for befriending homeless contacts made through other projects. Attenders are equipped to begin work as befrienders. Can also be an introduction to providing a mentoring and befriending project.

Management Committee training trio – three evenings or a whole day session introducing the role of the management committee member, fundraising and writing a business plan.

International Christian College

FOR: Church members, employed, experienced, depth, qualification

HOW: course-based, mixed learning

The International Christian College provides practice based Masters level training in urban ministry for reflective Christian practitioners. Historical, sociological and theological studies are emphasized in such a way that the student's own context is the central text under examination. The programme highlights an in-service structure so that students can remain in ministry, cohort learning that is deliberately communal, an international breadth (with residencies in Glasgow, Nairobi and Berlin), with emphasis on spiritual formation in order to sustain personal faith and wholeness in the urban context.

This programme of study will have particular appeal to those currently engaged in various Christian ministries that are concerned with urban mission. It will attract those who want space for reflection that maintains theological, sociological and spiritual integrity with a view to improved practice in the context of the city.

ICC offers a Master of Theology in Ministry in an Urban World degree. The programme is structured around four parallel tracks. Urban World Track explores the history and development of the urban world, using insights from various academic disciplines, especially urban history, sociology and biblical theology. Urban Church Track deals with biblical responses to the urban challenges that have direct bearing on effective ecclesologies. Personal and Spiritual Development Track enables participants to reflect on their personal growth in the context of the demands of urban ministry. Effecting Change Track offers opportunity to develop skills and practices necessary for improving ministry in the cities of the world.

Nehemiah Foundation

FOR: Church members, beginners, experienced, depth, qualification

HOW: Church-based, course-based, mixed learning

The Nehemiah Foundation is developing a new generation of regeneration professionals and equipping churches to support the transformation of the UK's most hard-pressed neighbourhoods.

The regeneration of an area is a complex process. The Nehemiah Foundation builds on 20 years of practitioner experience within community-based regeneration and is based upon the philosophy that regeneration is best initiated within a neighbourhood itself to ensure the sustainability of outcomes. The Nehemiah Foundation has four key aims: training, equipping, supporting and building community.

The Nehemiah Foundation courses are for people, churches and organisations wanting to engage more fully in the wider community, to understand what a neighbourhood wants and needs, and to be part of developing partnerships to deliver long-term community regeneration.

The Nehemiah Foundation offers:

- An accredited 18-month full time Community Regeneration programme over 4 parts, with participants based with a church or neighbourhood-based organisation, attending training sessions. Participants will deliver practical and strategic outcomes including the creation of an agreed business plan for local community regeneration.

- A condensed 8-month programme of 6 taught training days, with assignments to be completed with churches and neighbourhoods, helping churches to engage more fully in their wider communities.
- Stand-alone training days on a range of topics (including consultation, community mapping, vision, and governance) to help churches engage with their wider communities.

New Testament Church of God, Leadership Training Centre

FOR: Church members, employed, experienced, depth

HOW: mixed learning

The New Testament Church of God (NTCG) exists to advance the Christian Gospel and advocate for its members and other communities within our society.

The NTCG is one of the largest black majority churches in the UK. It has 120 congregations across England and Wales and is represented in every major city.

The NTCG offers courses in biblical, doctrinal and pastoral studies to Christian leaders for personal enrichment and ministerial development at its Leadership Training Centre. The courses are delivered via distance learning. Course participants have the opportunity to:

- Study at the time and pace that best suit their schedule;
- Study individually or with others at home with the help of DVDs;
- Attend two facilitator-led sessions for each course at the Leadership Training Centre;
- Learn from participating in group discussions and fellowship with others;
- Apply learning to life and ministry.

The NTCG offers two courses that are particularly applicable to urban ministry:

1. Planting and Growing Churches

This course provides participants with the opportunity to examine and apply some practical strategies for planting and growing churches. Special attention is given to major strategies for evangelism such as networking, small groups, home visitation, cross-cultural and media ministries. The course will also consider the characteristics of healthy, growing churches, with an emphasis on evangelism and renewal.

2. Ministering to Culturally Diverse Groups.

This course engages participants in a study of ministry to diverse groups with emphasis on urban ministry settings. The course examines the responsibility of the Church to embrace diversity and reach out to all people. It also considers the great potential for ministry in urban areas with the varied expectations and needs of a multi-cultural/ethnic society.

The Queen's Foundation for Ecumenical Theological Education

FOR: Church members, employed, beginners, experienced, depth, qualification

HOW: course-based, mixed learning

The Queen's Foundation for Ecumenical Theological Education is dedicated to excellence in theological education, ministerial training and personal formation in service to the Kingdom of God and our partner churches. We are committed to theological education which is ecumenical, inclusive, engaging, flexible and practical. We aim to form passionate, creative and imaginative disciples of Christ who are able to face the challenges of our world and the church in the 21st century where people must negotiate tradition, change, justice and diversity.

We offer a wide range of courses and programmes – from occasional study for beginners or those wanting to refresh or develop their learning, to full-time study at undergraduate and post graduate levels. Our programmes are usually available to lay and ordained members, but our focus is always on a practical or applied theology: theology that is for the sake of practice, and practice that is theologically reflective.

At Queen's our range of courses can be broken down into three areas:

- Biblical courses, with general introductory courses as well as advanced courses, some of which have an immediate bearing on urban mission, e.g. Reading the Prophets in Public (a study of Amos and Daniel) which is undertaken in Handsworth as well as on the Queen's campus.
- Theological courses, with general introductory courses as well as advanced courses: e.g. Practical Contextual Theology, Theology in the Market Place; Mission in a Post-modern Age, Black and Asian Theologies, interfaith studies.
- For those seeking advanced level courses, we offer an MA in Applied Theological Studies with several 'pathways' which focus and contextualise learning including Mission Leadership, Professional Development in Ministry, Black Ministries and Leadership, feminist theology/spirituality, and plans to develop further strands in interfaith studies and practice.

Most of our teaching is undertaken on the Queen's campus in Edgbaston, with its excellent library resources. You will learn and reflect with a stimulating group of people whose primary motivation is to deepen their discipleship and to serve God in lay and ordained ministries in the Churches.

Unlocking real life stories of urban people

Revealing Good News of the Down to Earth Christ

Releasing life changing skills and confidence

The resources and courses that we produce are for anyone working, in text-shy cultures, to connect people's real day to day lives and experiences with the Bible. They are particularly applicable to those working in church fringe, outreach, and social welfare projects, who want appropriate ways of exploring the Christian faith with people in those contexts.

Unlock offers 1 day training events for groups of 10-30 people. Participants will learn about some contemporary UK cultures and focus specifically on 'Traditional Tabloid' culture. They will then experience and explore appropriate ways of working with the Bible in such text-shy communities.

Unlock Bible study resources, developed for use in text-shy cultures are also available to download free from www.unlock-urban.org.uk, so that practitioners can learn by using them in their own contexts. These one off training events can be included as part of a wider training programme.

This is an excellent initiative in which every Christian can participate to bring our global mandate to our urban settings. I urge every church leader to signpost these learning resources to their congregation and encourage active participation in Christian mission.

Bishop Dr. Eric A. Brown FRSA
Administrative Bishop
New Testament Church of God
England & Wales

The urban landscape is often characterised as ‘god less’, stressful and hard. And yet it more exactly foretells the hope of Heaven that John describes in Revelation 7:9, where ‘every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages’ gather around the throne, than do some more ‘comfortable and affluent’ communities. In this prospectus, you will discover organisations for whom urban areas matter, who find in them the heart of ‘God with us’ and ‘God for us’ and who want to respond with hope and energy to the possibility and challenges.

Revd Dr Mark Wakelin -
Secretary for Internal Relationships,
The Methodist Church

One of the most important aspects of Christian commitment and practice is surely in relation to urban areas. It is here where life-giving and life-denying forces are intricately and intensely negotiated. To be a positive force Christians have to prepare well and reflect honestly and imaginatively. It is indeed good news that expertise from so many quarters has been brought together in this way to help with this task.

Ann Morisy - Community Theologian
